

Business Requirements

The business requirements for a machine learning model to predict personal loan approval include the ability to accurately predict loan approval based on applicant information, Minimise the number of false positives (approved loans that default) and false negatives (rejected loans that would have been successful). Provide an explanation for the model's decision, to comply with regulations and improve transparency.